Which QuickTrick is right for me?

Slider verses Non Slider

Our goal with every QuickTrick is to provide you with a tool that is high quality, simple to use with cross function capability, no matter what your goals. While all QuickTricks have similar functions, there are some basic differences.

There are two primary differences in each model which have to do with wheel attachment and adjustment.

The 4th Gen, like the Pro Series, has drilled holes for each wheel size with a slot in the bottom of each vertical to provide additional adjustments. This system is less costly to machine so has a lower price than the 4th Gen Slider & Xtreme. The 4th Gen is ideal for the DIYer, or anyone interested in checking their own alignments without the need to switch wheel sizes continuously.

The 4th Gen Slider, allows for a quick and easy adjustment from one wheel size to the next while on the move at the track or in a professional environment where multiple wheel and tire sizes are the norm. Due to the necessity of speed in this environment, the 4th Gen Sliders also come with a digital gauge for each frame for fast readings and adjustment.

The Xtreme has adjustable toe bars and slider. The Xtreme is designed for lowered vehicles, stance visuals and track cars with little to no clearance between the ground and undercarriage. All Xtreme's come with a gauge for each frame.
